

The light in arts, architecture and landscape

Alinaghi Salmani

Emam Hossein University

The issue of light is very complicated and maybe not understandable for many. Anyway we can affirm that what we know and talk about light is not really light but illumination that is a sub product of light ,that are two different concepts.

What permits our eyes to see is called illumination and is clear that without illumination is just darkness.

Nobody really knows what the essence of light is, but it is clear that is an inseparable part of the human life, like what means water for the fishes.

It can be assert that arts and architecture are created in the light presence and die with the darkness. Because man is a creator of arts and architecture, and he cannot live without light, so we can say that light is a conductor for the humans. Love, kindness, feelings all come from the presence of light in the world and everything is linked to the existence and essence of the light that can have often a spiritual content and value.